FOOTSTEPS IN
AFRICA
Botswana made easy

Camp Linyanti is about an hour's game drive from Saile airstrip, and is in that section of the Chobe National Park that abuts the Linyanti floodplains.

Fed by the flooded Chobe and Kwando rivers, the vast floodplains of Linyanti stretch out to Namibia's Caprivi Strip, and create a wetland oasis in an otherwise parched landscape. Remote, inaccessible except by air or arduous tracks of heavy sand, Linyanti is the cognoscenti's hideaway.

Great trees stud the open riverine forest as it approaches the water's edge, and the interface, especially in the dry season, is a game-and bird-viewer's delight. Camp Linyanti is small and intimate – five elevated, en-suite tents with outdoor showers accommodate just ten guests in this simple and charming camp overlooking a vast lagoon.

Twice daily game drives through the forest and along the waterways yield a marvelous array and variety of wildlife, with traditionally dry-land and wet-land species vying with one another. Hippos snort in the lagoon, while Brown Hyaena prowl the forest. The game-viewing vehicles are open to facilitate game-watching and photography, and your guide will delight in showing you the beauty and diversity of Linyanti's natural wonders. The terrain is conducive to game viewing and the sheer spectacle of the forest is an added bonus to a stay at Camp Linyanti.

Camp Linyanti also offers a daily boat activity on their 6m Swamp Cruiser. This impressive boat, fully kitted out for guests' comfort, has two engines – a powerful 4-stroke outboard motor, and a quiet electric motor for moving silently through the fringes of the Linyanti lagoon and waterways, viewing birds and wildlife. This is a significant addition to the activities on offer at Camp Linyanti, and a further justification for using this superbly situated, small and intimate camp in a remote and rewarding area of Botswana.
